

POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES

Possessive adjectives are the possessive forms of the personal pronouns.

The English forms are:

personal pronoun possessive adjective

I my
 you your
 he his
 she her
 it its
 we our (you guys) (your)
 they their
 (YOU) (your)

In German the forms appear as follows:

personal pronoun possessive adjective English meaning ich mein_ my not mine du dein_ your (familiar singular) not yours er sein_ his (its) sie ihr_ her (its) not hers es sein_ its (his, her) wir unser_ our not ours ihr euer_ your (familiar plural) not yours sie ihr_ thier not theirs

 Sie Ihr_ your - formal (singular and plural) not yours

Please Note !!!

The German possessive adjectives take endings based on the noun that follows.

case & gender markers for possessive adjective (based on the accompanying noun)

	masculine	feminine	neuter	plural
nominative	Ø	-e	Ø	-e
accusative	-en	-e	Ø	-e
dative	-em	-er	-em	-en
genitive	-es	-er	-es	-er

traits of possessive adjectives

- never stand alone
- must always be followed by a noun (the noun appears somewhere to the right of the possessive adjective)
- always form a syntactic unit with the following noun (may include other adjectives - my beautiful daughter)
- take the case and gender markers based on the case and gender of the following noun (see and memorize chart above)
- belong to the series of ein-words, that is, they behave exactly like ein- and kein- (all of which are determiners)

examples of possessive adjectives

My pen is broken.

Mein \emptyset Kugelschreiber ist kaputt.

syntactic unit = my pen - pen = nom/masc

mein + \emptyset (nom/masc = \emptyset) Kugelschreiber

I have her pen.

Ich habe ihr en Kugelschreiber.

syntactic unit = her pen - pen = acc/masc

ihr + en (acc/masc = en) Kugelschreiber

Do you have his book?

Hast du sein \emptyset Buch?

syntactic unit = his book - book = acc/neut sein + \emptyset (acc/neut = \emptyset) Buch

Their children are nice.

Ihre Kinder sind nett.

syntactic unit = their children - children = nom/plur ihr + e (nom/plur = e) Kinder

Our family is large.

Unsere Familie ist groß.

syntactic unit = our family - family = nom/fem unser + e (nom/fem = e) Familie

It is important to remember that possessive adjectives take grammar endings based on the noun with which they are associated. Remember to add the appropriate case and gender endings when using possessive adjectives. Study the following examples and notice all the various endings. Please note that the \emptyset is not written. It is used here to indicate a zero ending.
